January 7	The days within the Epiphany Octave are only used until the Sunday, after which the readings are taken from the First Week After Epiphany (except for the Octave Day; readings replaced by the Octave Day should be combined with the following or preceding day). If Christmas falls on a Monday, the Fourth Sunday of Advent will be Christmas Eve, in such a case, Epiphany falls on Saturday and so there will be no readings for days within the Octave of Epiphany. In this case, all the readings for the Fourth Week of Advent should be combined and read on the Fourth Sunday itself. Otherwise, however, the number of ferial days within the Epiphany Octave will be the same as the number of ferial days in the Fourth Week of Advent omitted due to Christmas Eve and Christmas, and indeed they will be the same weekdays. In this case, the occluded readings for the Fourth Sunday of Advent should be transferred to the Epiphany Octave.
